

Lesson – 7

Saying without speaking

I. Fill in the blanks:

1. The game in which one player acts and other guesses is dumb charades.
2. Sometimes our face expressions and body movements speak what we want to say.
3. The face is a mirror of our expressions.
4. People who cannot speak are called dumb.
5. People who cannot hear are called deaf.
6. Children who cannot speak and hear learn the sign language.
7. It is difficult to express ourselves without speaking.
8. Children who are deaf and dumb are called special children.

II. Match the following:

1. A person looks happy – When he achieves something or wins.
2. A person looks sad - when he loses something or someone hurts him.
3. A person looks scared – when he gets frightened from something.
4. A person gets surprised – when he gets something, which he did not expect.
5. A person looks worried – when he faces any problem.

Home work

Draw the faces of people with the following expressions.

- a) Happy
- b) Sad
- c) Angry
- d) Scared.

III. Answer the following:

1. Why some people talk through actions?

Most of us can hear and speak, but some people can neither hear nor speak. That's why these people talk through actions.

2. What is sign language?

People who cannot speak and hear can understand what the other person is saying by studying their lip movements or actions. This kind of communicating language is called as sign language.

3. What are Mudras and Bhavs?

We can talk through dance as well. In dance the hands and face are used to convey feelings. These are called mudras and bhavs.

Home work

Draw any two dance mudras

IV. Answer in detail:

1. How should we treat special children?

- Special children have feelings and emotions like all of us.
- Every child is good at something.
- Some can sing well, some can dance, some write well and some are good at studies.
- In the same way, these special children are also good at something.
- We should appreciate them and be kind to them.